Program is designed to recognize the youth of our counties and encourage continued education as self-improvement. While there are no forward obligation requirements under the program as to residency, it is hoped that it will support the continuing education desires for graduating seniors living here and desiring to make a life in our communities. In evaluating applications, the committee members will consider educational success to date in school, service to community, involvement in outside activities, applicant's goals and aspirations, financial need, and essay response.

Scholarship award is currently excluded from taxable income, however must be used exclusively for qualified tuition and related expenses, which are (1) tuition and fees required for enrollment or attendance at a qualified educational organization, and (2) fees, books, supplies and equipment required for courses of instruction at such an organization.
